

MISSION LOG · DAY ONE

Pale Blue Pebble

You set down on a rock barely wider than your shadow.
In the hold: seeds and dirty ice. Walk it, plant it, thaw it, and see if it will hold an atmosphere befor...

Winter took the oldest tree. It will take more. Plant winter trees – the cold spares those.

HOW IT GROWS

The Pebble swells with every living thing you give it: a tree, a block of meltwater, a standing building, a settled bird – and a fed crewmate.

Gauges divide by its size: a bigger body asks for more. Keep the three gauges fed and growth never stops.

Each growth stage brings a card, new blueprints, and a fresh page of field notes.

THE CAT'S TANK

Awake drains it slowly; the Deep drains a quarter faster. A NAP at the habitat (or the moss nook below) refills it whole; a REST at the tent gives half.

A drowsy cat drags its paws. The thermos carries one swig of nap.

BARREN ROCK

Nothing here but dust and your own footprints.
